Understanding Anger

This 8 week course is designed as a self-help method of developing skills in order to resolve conflict and sustain relationships. The course aims to assist individuals to use anger in a positive way. Each week the course will build on the previous sessions and participants are asked to reflect upon the course. Each person is encouraged to put learned skills into practice.

The therapeutic group is a useful method of enabling people in managing and understanding issues of anger. Peer support plays a large role in helping the individual to achieve and maintain good mental health. Group members may also choose to form their own self-help group after the course has ended.

What the individual will learn on this course:

- General concepts relating to anger.
- To reflect how different situations can make you feel angry.
- To reflect on how our beliefs and moods affect us.
- To discuss triggers of anger and reflect on their emotional needs.
- To identify unhelpful and helpful aspects of thinking.
- To problem solve situations regarding anger.
- To develop skills to relax.

Recovery & Beyond Courses

These courses are designed to address all the common challenges faced by many people on a day-to-day basis. The aim is to help participants within a group format make changes to their lives in a planned and achievable way.

With each course, sessions build on the previous one with exercises given at the end for the participants/group to reflect upon the following week. In this way, each person is encouraged to put the learned skills into practice whilst being accountable, not only to themselves but also to the rest of the group.

Each person remains in control and is responsible for themselves at all times. The group format is a useful method of enabling people in managing their condition/problem. Peer support plays a large role in helping participants to achieve and maintain good mental health. Group members may also choose to attend a Wellbeing or Activity Group after the course has ended, or even whilst it is still taking place.
